MUSIC & DANCE AT THE CENTER

As the holidays draw near, music and dance from around the world provide the perfect celebration of the joys of the season. For details, see Calendar listings under the date given for each production.

Sardono Dance Theater
A complex mix of the ancient and modern, the natural and metaphysical—a contemporary production by Indonesia's most eloquent performance ensemble, always daring, unconventional and controversial.

With the chamber-sized gamelan is a cast of eighteen dancers and musicians in a sweeping production, realized with striking clarity and power. The simultaneously mystical and pragmatic world view reflected in the majestic arts of Central Java form the basis for choreographer, director and filmmaker Sardono Kusumo's new theatrical piece for his first American tour, "Passage through the Gong."

Sardono Dance Theater is recognized as Indonesia's most eloquent exponent of performance today. November 4–7.

Earplay
The critically-acclaimed contemporary chamber music ensemble's second concert of its ninth season, featuring violist/conductor George Thomson and soprano Nadya Mahdi. The program includes five West Coast premieres, representing composers from coast to coast, including Marty Boykan, Jacob Druckman, Ellen Harrison, Bung Ching Lam, Jeffrey Perry and Reynold Simpson. November 9.

Music & Dance of Bali
Gamelan Sekar Jaya, the finest gamelan orchestra outside of Bali, and guest artists with music and dance of Indonesia. Guest music director I Nyoman Windha, considered Bali's greatest young composer, is a magnetic performer as well. His wife, dancer I Gusti Agung Ayu Warsiki, also appears. The concert features their son, I Wahyu Indira. The eight-year-old prodigy performs "Baris," the warrior dance.

During the show, two different gamelans are played: the regular gong kebyar instruments, and the smaller, four-tone gamelan angklung. Also featured is the world premiere of a new instrumental work, "Dari Dunia Lain," by Lars Jensen. November 13.

In the Cowell Theater lobby during the month of November is an art exhibit of works by award-winning Balinese artist Made Wiante. There is an artist's reception preceding the November 13 performance. The exhibit is sponsored by UCSF Center for AIDS Prevention Studies. The paintings will be offered as gifts to donors to the Center's International Program. For exhibit information, call 597-9144.

Sukay: Music of the Andes
The ethereal and enchanting Andean music ensemble hosts a holiday festival celebrating the music and dance of Peru, Bolivia and Ecuador. Special guest musicians and dancers join Sukay to perform traditional music from the region, including "Sicuris," the earliest-known indigenous music for pan-pipes, as well as contemporary folk, original compositions, and selections from their latest CD release, "Navidad Andina: Christmas in the Andes."

Drawing from thousands of years of colorful and complex regional music history, Sukay uses the traditional wooden flutes, percussion instruments, and five-stringed guitars of the Andes to recall pre-Incan, Incan and post-colonialist civilizations. Sukay accompanies each song with a story or anecdote that explains its historic origin and widens its accessibility to the audience. November 19 and 20.

Stoneflower
There's magic at every turn in this 10th Anniversary performance of Langridge Dance's traditional holiday ballet. A Russian folktale set to the music of Prokofiev, Stoneflower takes children on a journey through a world with fire sparks, cave creatures and stone spirits. November 23.

DanceTime! 500 Years of Popular Dance
San Francisco performance company Dance Through Time presents the elegance and allure of social dancing. It's a celebration of courtship through dance, from the courtly Renaissance to the nonstop motion of the 1990s, from France, Italy, and England to the Americas, from quadrilles to tangos to break dancing.

Staged with period music and authentic costumes, the performance delights audiences of all ages, transporting them on a fantasy journey punctuated with dialogue, song, and music of the times.

From court to country, ballroom to bistro, salon to street, DanceTime! is an energetic theatrical show of life intepreted through dance. November 26 through 28.

Plowshares Folk Music Concerts
Faith Petrick is joined by Peter Kessler, Gail Fratar and Jeff Crossley for an evening of songs, harmonies and instrumental virtuosity on guitar, banjo, mandolin and bass (November 13). Performer, traveler and folklorist Saul Broudy presents music from the roots of American culture, accompanying himself on guitar and harmonica (November 21). In the Firehouse, sponsored by the San Francisco Folk Music Center.

THE BUDDY CLUB

The Buddy Club provides something fresh and exciting to do with the kids. It's live performances, enjoyable for all ages, featuring the best in children's entertainment from around the country. The whole family can enjoy a fun-filled show of singing and laughing, being dazzled by feats of magic, juggling, and ventriloquism.

The company was created to provide a "culture for families," according to co-producers Scott Gelfand and Adam Gottstein. The show emphasizes interaction among performers, parents and children, providing lots of laughs, and also lots of food.

The concept originated at The Other Cafe comedy club in the Haight-Ashbury. Gelfand, who was manager and a partner in the club, began producing children's matinees there in 1987. He formed a partnership with Gottstein, who was a performer, and the enterprise eventually became The Buddy Club.

The Cowell Theater has become the San Francisco home for the Club. Shows are presented on selected Sundays from 11am to noon. The first performance here was October 24, with Zappo the Magician and singer Adam Gottstein. Bay Area sensation Magic Mike appears on November 21; "Happy Clown Theatre" with Jim Beatty and Paul E. Wog will appear on December 12.

Buddy Club birthday parties include priority admission to the show and the best seats in the house. Cameras are welcome. The birthday child is included in the show, and everyone sings "Happy Birthday." Party space is provided after the show to serve lunch and cake, open presents and play games. One of the best things provided is clean-up after the party.

Join the half-price club—a special discount admissions card provides two admissions for the price of one all year at Buddy Club performances.

The company also provides entertainment for private parties, corporate events and picnics, fundraisers for schools, libraries, churches, community centers and museums. Performers include magicians, jugglers, singers, ventriloquists, stiltwalkers, clowns, puppeteers and acrobats.

Satisfied clients include Larkspur Landing Shopping Center, Lawrence Hall of Science Museum, the San Francisco Jewish Community Center, Bay Area Discovery Museum, The Exploratorium and The San Francisco Zoo.

Gelfand and Gottstein hope to turn the Club into a broad family networking agency, with membership in a kind of global "buddy system." They hope eventually to use proceeds to help feed children around the world, enabling people, especially children, to be buddies to other children who need help. For information, tickets, and birthday party reservations, call 431-3965.

PASSION, MAGIC & SPORT

Theaters at Fort Mason Center present a variety of performances that reflect the diversity of the Bay Area community and its creative range. There's something for almost every taste, and for every age. For details, see Calendar listings under the date given for each production.

Bay Area Theatresports
Improvisational theater as a competitive sporting event, complete with teams, panels of judges, and abusive audience. A unique concept and format. Bayfront Theater, November 1–15.

Arthur & Leila
Leila is a pillar in her community with just one problem: a blackmailing brother. A gambler and a drunk, he sells family heirlooms back to his sister. As they barter money and memories, what does Arthur give up, and how much will Leila pay? a humorous, delicate rendering of the combative yet symbiotic relationship between an aging Chinese American brother and sister in search of their family legacy. A world premiere presented by Brava! For Women In The Arts. Bayfront Theater, October 27–November 21. See November 3.

The Fatherless Sky
Violence and passion collide, from Chicago's streets to the Middle East, from the realm of angels to the world of fathers and sons. A San Francisco premiere written and performed with an original score by Albert Greenberg, presented by A Traveling Jewish Theatre. Magic Theatre, through November 7. See November 3.

James & The Giant Peach
A family play for all ages, from a story by Roald Dahl. Ever wanted to see a peach grow? Join James and his insect friends on a mystical journey inside a magic peach. Young Performers Theatre, October 30–November 21. See November 6.

Metropolis
A panorama of unique characters, scenes and songs from this all-improv comedy group. Blue Bear School of Music, November 6–27.

Giants Have Us In Their Books
A tiger loose in Central Park…a girl becomes a garden…a winged man. Six magical fables for adults "about death and sex and good stuff like that" by José Rivera, author of The Promise, Each Day Dies With Sleep, and Marisol. A world premiere, directed by Roberto Gutierrez Varea. Magic Theatre, November 3–December 5. See November 9.

Sometimes We Need A Story More Than Food
A solo theatrical excursion through 18th-century Poland, 1st-century Jerusalem, modern-day Prague, the freeways of Los Angeles and the delicatessens of New York. Written and performed by Corey Fischer, directed by Helen Stoltzfus. Magic Theatre, November 11–December 5. See November 13.

West Coast Weekend
San Francisco's only live performance radio show, produced by KQED-FM, broadcasts from Fort Mason Center. Host Sedge Thompson presents a diverse selection of guests and music. Cowell Theater, November 20 and 27.

METAL ARTS ON EXHIBIT

Necklace by Carolyn Tillie

The Bay Area Metal Arts Guild presents the 6th annual Metalsmiths' Fair. On exhibit are fine jewelry, hollowware, blacksmithing, sculpture, enamel, weaving and flatware made by some 31 jury-selected members of the Guild.

The Fair gives the public a chance to meet artisans working with metal as a primary medium, established as well as emerging craftspeople, all Metal Arts Guild members. In addition, blacksmithing demonstrations and door prizes donated by Guild participants are featured.

The Bay Area Metal Arts Guild is a nonprofit membership organization that assists artisans working in metal and educates the public about metalwork.

The Fair takes place November 6 and 7, Saturday and Sunday, 10am to 6pm in the Fort Mason Conference Center, Building A. Admission is $4 adults, $3 seniors, children under 12 free. For more information, call 558-8083.

HONORING MEDIA WORKERS

The MAMA Awards are here again! For the 13th year, the Media Alliance Meritorious Achievement Awards celebrate professional excellence and social commitment in journalism and the information media.

Media Alliance is a nonprofit membership organization of more than 2,800 Bay Area professionals. The organization works to protect First Amendment freedoms and advocates for a diverse, balanced and accountable mass media. It also provides services, support and a sense of community for workers in the field through its publications MediaFile and Propaganda Review, its resource guides, job banks and skills classes.

Some of this year's award winners are nationally known in their respective fields, while others are fresh new faces. What they all share is talent, commitment and integrity.

The 1993 Golden Gadfly Award goes to the San Francisco Mime Troupe in recognition of its 34-year history of spirited and often controversial performances of original works about the immediate issues of our time.

The Elsa Knight Thompson Special Achievement Award goes to Carla Marinucci for her groundbreaking San Francisco Examiner series on immigration.

Other winners include Ronald Takaki (A Different Mirror) and Randy Shilts (Conduct Unbecoming) sharing the Nonfiction Book Award, Gary Rivlin of East Bay Express for print journalism, Lydia Ely of Street Sheet for community journalism, Paola Laverde and Araceli Martinez of KDTV-TV 14 sharing the Larry Lee Award for Excellence in Television, Kevin Nash for KMEL-FM's Street Soldiers series receiving the Leo Lee Radio Award, Allie Light of Dialogues With Madwomen for independent film/video, Guatemala News and Information Bureau for unimpeachable source, Robert Gumpert for photography, Dan "Tom Tomorrow" Perkins for illustration, and Douglas Foster and Andrew Lam sharing the prize for freelance writing.

The 1993 MAMA Awards Celebration takes place in the Cowell Theater on Tuesday, November 16 with a reception at 6:15pm, Gala Awards Presentation at 7:15pm, and a dessert reception immediately following the ceremony.

Advance tickets (by November 10) are $16; after November 12 or at the door, $22. Advance tickets are recommended. Price of admission includes complimentary hors d'oeuvres. Black tie optional. For information, call 441-2557.

Dan "Tom Tomorrow" Perkins
Illustration award winner.

POETRY IN THE ARTS

The San Francisco Festival of Poetry in the Arts brings to Fort Mason two full weekends of poets, musicians, dancers and performing artists celebrating the importance of poetry to drama, music, film and dance.

This is the seventh annual literary arts event sponsored by the National Poetry Association, based at Fort Mason Center. At the Festival's opening night gala, the Association presents its Lifetime Literary Achievement Award to poets Diane di Prima and Michael McClure. A champagne reception features Lou Harrison's musical work based on Yeats' The Only Jealousy of Emer, with Bertram Turetsky on contrabass.

The Festival also joins with San Francisco's first Café Arts Month Celebration in three special programs featuring poets from the city's most famous literary cafés, magazines and presses. Oxygen magazine presents "Breathing Space," featuring Joie Cook, Victor Martinez, Mel Thompson, Kimi Sugioka, and David Fisher. Café Babar presents "Babarians," featuring Vampyre Mike Kassel, Laura Conway, Craig Easley, Margery Snyder, Whitman McGowan, and klipschutz with musician Bone Cootes. Lastly, Zeitgeist Press presents "Zeitgeist Fires Up the Spoken Word!" with Eli Coppola, Dominique Lowell, Julia Vinograd and Sparrow 13.

"Poetry and Music" is celebrated by an evening with poet and Grateful Dead lyricist Robert Hunter, Jerry Beau Geste, and the Bolinas Hippie Band.

"Poetry and Drama" night presents The Marilyn Monroe Memorial Theatre's adaption of Camus' The Stranger, Frank Reilly doing Leonard Cohen, Scott Beach reading from Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell," and Verona Seiter reading from The Faith Healer.

"Poetry and Dance" features Contraband doing exerpts from works based on the life of Indian poet Mirabai and Tandy Beal presenting "Poetry In Movement" and a screening of highlights from "Behind Blake's Window."

"Performance Poetry" features Judy Grahn with Friends and Lovers, African Roots of Jazz with griot-poet Phavia Kujichagulia and E.W. Wainwright on percussion, and Piri Thomas with Carlos Frederico.

Other programs include "Tongues of Fire! Chicano/Latino Poets Read Out!" with Juan Felipe Herrera, José Antonio Burciaga, Bernice Zamora, Roberto Tinoco Durán, Margarita Luna Robles, and George Tirado, "Young Voices/New Poems," a Poets in the Schools Program curated by Maureen Hurley, and the "7th Annual Marathon Open Reading."

The Festival's closing event is the "18th Annual Poetry Film & Video Festival" featuring entries from around the world.

On exhibit during the Festival is a poetry and graphic arts installation by Zoravia Bettiol and Robyn Lisgne.

The Festival of Poetry in the Arts takes place November 12-14 and 19-21, Friday through Sunday in the Fort Mason Conference Center, Building A. For dates, times and ticket prices for particular programs, refer to Calendar listing under November 12. For further information, call 776-6602.

NONPROFIT MARKETPLACE

Within the nonprofit service community, a small industry has developed. High-quality one-of-a-kind gift items are being carefully crafted and produced through the efforts of an unexpected yet talented group of entrepreneurs. These craftspeople, artists and writers are recipients of services provided by San Francisco's nonprofit community, including the homeless, disabled and elderly people, and recent immigrants.

Currently there is no central outlet for the distribution of these goods. A Nonprofit Marketplace has been created as a cooperative venture to display and sell these products.

The marketplace enables craftspersons, writers and artists who are also the city's elderly, displaced, disabled and immigrant newcomers to support their nonprofit services and achieve recognition from the community as a whole.

Sponsored by the San Francisco Volunteer Center, participating organizations include Refugee Transitions, Salvation Army Gateway, SF Arts Education Foundation, Self-Help for the Elderly, Shriners Hospital, Asian Neighborhood Design, Richmond Multiservice Day Treatment Center, South of Market Cultural Center, Bayview Hunters Point ADHC, Cameron House, Diamond Senior Center, Nicaragua Interfaith Committee, Raphael House, and Noriega Adult Day Center.

Services provided include day care for frail elders and disabled adults, shelter and services for homeless families, job training for low-income San Francisco residents, an Asian community center, education for refugees, mental health services, promotion of the arts in San Francisco schools, and orthopedic care for children.

Among the artworks and gift items for sale are Chinese wall hangings, children's art, embroidered wall panels, jewelry and handbags, wearable art, Chinese brush paintings and scrolls, picture frames, masks, drawings, watercolors, stuffed toys, handcrafted furniture, baskets, mugs, cookbooks, sweatshirts, needlework, Guatemalan textiles, crafts from Nicaragua, greeting cards and ornaments. All items are handmade, and selected on the basis of artistic criteria and uniqueness.

The Nonprofit Marketplace takes place in the Gatehouse, Friday through Sunday, November 26 through 28, from 10am to 6pm. Admission is free. For information about the Marketplace, or other programs of the Volunteer Center, call 982-8999.

SF CRAFT & FOLK ART MUSEUM

Lakota Star Quilts
In recent years, textile historians have discovered that quilting traditions exist among a variety of cultures. In its continuing effort to focus on various quilting traditions, the San Francisco Craft & Folk Art Museum presents more than a dozen star quilts made by the Oglala Lakota women of South Dakota. These examples are from the collection of The Heritage Center at the Red Cloud Indian School, Pine Ridge, South Dakota.

The star quilt tradition among the indigenous Americans of the Great Plains is not well-known outside of that area, yet it is profound and meaningful to these people. Quilting in the Dakota territory was initially introduced to Native American women by missionaries in early 19th-century churches. The women easily adapted to this textile medium, and the quilts have become an integral part of the Plains Indians cultural tradition.

Sources for the hundreds of variations of the eight-pointed star on the quilts include ancient star designs on quill work, beadwork and drawings on buffalo skins, and sewing classes at Federal schools in Pennsylvania and Virginia, attended by the young women.

The Native American quilters have created a tremendous range of designs that incorporate peace pipes, buffalo, tepees, eagles and flying swallow images into the overall star motif. The quilts are thought by some to have replaced the traditional buffalo robes.

The star quilts have become important as gifts given at birth, worn in death, and offered to celebrate occasions such as weddings, completion of education, or recovery from illness. They also may be taken on spiritual quests.

"Contemporary American Indian Art: Lakota Star Quilts" is presented in conjunction with the Phoebe Hearst Museum, University of California at Berkeley, which exhibits "Contemporary Native American Indian Art Forms: Navajo Pottery" from November 12 through February 28, 1994.

The Navajo Indians of the Southwest have an ancient tradition of pottery, for both utilitarian and ceremonial uses. Recently the craft has undergone a creative revival, in response to new tourist and art markets. This exhibition of approximately fifty pieces traces the development of Navajo pottery during the 20th century, focusing on the work of the past five years. For information about the pottery exhibit at the Phoebe Hearst Museum, call (510) 642-3681.

Unknown Africa
A selection of rare and unusual African objects from the collection of Professor Daniel Crowley is exhibited on the occasion of his retirement as Professor of Anthropology at UC Davis. Crowley's distinguished career as a teacher, a chronicler of folk festivals, and a surveyor of the world's tribal art markets has enriched the lives of thousands.

Professor Crowley, whose peripatetic career took him to several continents and to more than 273 countries, acquired odd and unusual objects that struck his eye wherever he went. Among them are toys, tools, pots, swords, baskets, doors, stools, flags, and a variety of masks—beaded, painted, paper, raffia, cloth—even a carved mask of Dan Crowley.

From Crowley's collection, Weldon Smith, the Museum's Director, has chosen a group of African objects that are almost completely unknown to outsiders. Included are traditional pieces, such as a Chokwe mask made of screen wire and covered with tar. In contrast are playful and very creative objects made to tempt foreign visitors (and anthropologists) such as an Asante pot with an arm reaching up to hold on its own lid.

Most important are the efforts to express traditional values in new forms and materials, such as a giant paper dance mask from Guinea Bissau, or an aluminum repoussé narrative panel from the Yoruba people of Nigeria. The exhibition is punctuated by Dan Crowley's narratives of the function and context of the pieces on display.

These two exhibitions opened October 30 and continue through January 2, 1994. There is a public reception on Tuesday, November 2 from 5 to 7pm. For Museum hours, see Galleries listing. For information, call 775-0990.

CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS are underway at Fort Mason Center. We understand the inconvenience this presents, but the long-term positive impact is significant. Our apologies for the inconvenience—thanks for your patience during these important projects.

Passenger Elevators are being installed in Buildings B, C, D, and E. The anticipated completion dates are December 1 for Buildings C and D, January 2, 1994, for Buildings B and E.

Restroom Renovations continue on the 3rd floor of Building C. Signs are posted directing visitors to the nearest open restrooms.

Earthquake Repairs have been completed after 17 months of work. We now have new loading platforms and barrier-free ramps around Buildings B, C, D, & E, interior floor repairs to Buildings B & C, and essential underwater repairs to all piers.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR MEETING SPACE?

Fort Mason Center has a wide variety of attractive and affordable facilities available for workshops, seminars, training and educational programs, retreats, performances, and special events.

Our facilities, including Conference Center, Firehouse, Herbst and Festival Pavilions, Cowell Theater and Meeting Rooms, are capable of handling groups from 5 to 5,000. You are welcome to make food service arrangements with a caterer of your choice.

There is ample free parking on site and along the beautiful Marina Green, with easy accessibility from all directions. MUNI comes right to our front door.

Located between the Golden Gate Bridge and Fisherman's Wharf on San Francisco's northern waterfront, Fort Mason is a unique blend of entertainment and education, open day and night, 365 days each year. A National Historic Landmark and part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, it's the setting for more than 15,000 events each year.

Please call (415) 441-5706 for information, Monday through Saturday, 9am to 5pm.

WHO USES THE GATEHOUSE AT FORT MASON?

You can! It's available for rent on an hourly basis every day. Ask about special half-day or full day meeting packages. The Gatehouse has 663 square feet of carpeted space and is ideal for training sessions or meetings of up to 30 people. Call Joyce Harper at the Fort Mason Center offices, 441-5706, to inquire about availability.

NEW CLIENT DISCOUNT

Are you planning a meeting, workshop, class, seminar or other event for under 300 people? We are offering 10% off regular rates, for new clients only, available on your first booking of the Conference Center or the Firehouse at Fort Mason Center. To receive this disount, just mention that you saw this special offer in the Calendar when you reserve the space. For information, call 441-5706.
